

CKD Navigator Frontend Components Flow

Documented by Sai Kiran Pocham

While building any react applications the components should be modularized to the lowest as possible to make the application more efficient and optimized. We have used functional components in this react application to make the code simpler and easy to scalable. Below are the components used in this application.

